Minnesota Statutes § 176.231, subdivision 9, requires that information in a workers' compensation claim file maintained by the Department of Labor and Industry may not be released without the authorization of the employee, employer, insurer or dependent of the deceased employee.

Minnesota Rules, part 5220.2880, subpart 1, requires an authorization to:

- be in writing;
- be signed and dated within the past six months by the employee or legal guardian, employer, insurer, special compensation fund or dependent of a deceased employee for the specified date of injury; and
- specify who is authorized to review the file.

The department may ask for additional information to verify the identity of the person authorizing the release or the relationship of the person to a party to the claim. Claim file information may not be released over the telephone without this authorization in the department's file. The department will only copy or permit review of claim file information for the dates of injury indicated on the authorization. If the authorization is for all dates of injury for an employee, indicate "any and all" dates of injury. An employer or insurer must obtain an authorization from the employee to review a workers' compensation file for which it is not a party.

This authorization must be signed and dated by an authorized person and filed with the Department of Labor and Industry.
